

John exclaims “Twenty pages have been ripped from my textbook.” Hilde replied, not so helpfully: “I bet the sum of the missing page numbers is even.”

Is Hilde right? Is she wrong? Or do you have too little information to decide?

Explain the thinking behind your answer:

Can you use mathematical principles or construct an equation to “prove” your answer?

John exclaims “Twenty pages have been ripped from my textbook.” Hilde replied, not so helpfully: “I bet the sum of the missing page numbers is even.”

Is Hilde right? Is she wrong? Or do you have too little information to decide?

Explain the thinking behind your answer:

Can you use mathematical principles or construct an equation to “prove” your answer?